Rehab Center: Azure Acres Recovery Center

Description: Azure Acres has been providing adult chemical dependency treatment services for over 40 years. Secluded in the midst of a redwood forest in Sonoma County, just north of San Francisco, this small and intimate program is housed in a historic lodge on thirty acres of property graced by rolling green lawns, wooded hiking trails, a swimming pool and picnic area. We can help you discover a new way to live free from the bonds of drugs, alcohol, and gambling addiction.
Azure Acres Treatment Center provides a comfortable, spiritually healing setting to help those suffering from drug addiction, discover a new life - drug and alcohol free. Our treatment approach also recognizes and addresses the suffering that the addicted person's family members and loved ones inevitably experience.
Our weekend family program includes educational groups and conjoint family sessions. It is through this process that our clients and families begin to understand that their loved one have a disease called chemical dependency. Anger turns to laughter. Fear and distrust turn into hope and love. For the first time in a long time life begins to feel good ... and warm ... and wonderful again.
Residents are introduced to the 12-Step recovery process through orientation talks and open meetings.
When people come to Azure Acres, they are met with a warmth and compassion that says you are welcome here.
